JURY SELECTED IN COSBY'S SEXUAL ASSAULT TRIAL

1 Seven men and five women, including two black jurors, will determine comedian Bill Cosby's fate at his upcoming sexual assault trial in Pennsylvania, after claims from his lawyers that race played a factor in their selection. Judge Steven O'Neill seated the 12th and final juror on Wednesday, along with three alternates. The judge is planning to add three more alternates, likely by Thursday.

Over three days of jury selection, O'Neill grilled around 200 prospective jurors on their familiarity with the case and whether they could set aside any preconceived notions about what will be one of the highest-profile celebrity trials in recent memory. REUTERS

PROTEST AT MCDONALD'S SHAREHOLDER MEETING

2 Hundreds of fast-food workers demanding wage increases marched on Wednesday outside of the McDonald's Corp. headquarters in a Chicago suburb during the company's annual shareholder meeting. The demonstrators were part of a larger nationwide protest organized by the labor group "Fight for 15," which has regularly targeted McDonald's calling for higher pay and union rights for workers. Dozens of protesters also rallied outside of United Airlines shareholder meeting in downtown Chicago. "I saw my mother, who worked 30 years for Hardee's, struggle on food stamps to raise her family and now I'm doing the same thing," said Terrance Wise, a 42-year-old from Kansas City who was protesting outside the McDonald's meeting. FORMER TRUMP CAMPAIGN ADVISER PAGE TO TESTIFY

3 Carter Page, a former foreign policy adviser to Donald Trump's presidential campaign, will testify on June 6 before a House committee investigating alleged efforts by Russia to influence the U.S. election, ABC News reported on Wednesday. ABC News, which said Page had told it about the scheduled testimony, also cited a letter the former Trump adviser wrote to the leaders of the House Intelligence Committee's investigation in which he said witnesses the panel had already heard from had presented "one biased viewpoint." FACEBOOK DEALS FOR ORIGINAL VIDEO SHOWS

5 Facebook Inc has signed deals with millennial-focused news and entertainment creators Vox Media, BuzzFeed, ATTN, Group Nine Media and others to make shows for its upcoming video service, which will feature long- and short-form content with ad breaks, according to several sources familiar with the situation. Facebook is planning two tiers of video entertainment: scripted shows with episodes of 20 to 30 minutes, which it will own, and shorter scripted and unscripted shows with episodes lasting about 5 to 10 minutes, which Facebook will not own, according to the sources. All of the sources asked to remain anonymous because the deals are confidential. Facebook's move to acquire and license original content is the latest in its push to attract more advertising dollars. Philadelphia's favorite flavor of porn? Black and gay, according to Pornhub

Black gay porn is 50 percent more popular in Philly than in the rest of the U.S., and other fun facts about the most popular porn in Philly.

CASSIE HEPLER
@MetroPhilly
letters@metro.us

Philly loves dark chocolate, apparently.

According to Pornhub, the well-known pornography website made by our friends in Montreal, the search terms "ebony" and "black" are both 90 percent more popular in Philadelphia than in the rest of the U.S.

The overall "gay – black" category is 47 percent more popular here than elsewhere in the U.S., and there's a 33 percent increase in searches for "ebony" videos in Philadelphia.

Our LGBT and cougar searches are strong, with "lesbian" as the top-ranking search in Philly, followed by "MILF" and "step mom." Apparently, this is the city of brotherly love and sisterly affection, indeed. Porn consumption only puts Philadelphia at No. 8 nationally, with 2.7 percent of the site's traffic. "Lesbian" consistently ranks as one of the top search terms in the United States.

Pornhub's national average visit time of 10 minutes, 26 seconds extends 8 seconds longer for Philadelphia friends.

Got a favorite porn star? You're not alone. Riley Reid takes the top spot in Boston and Philadelphia with Mia Khalifa riding right behind her in second place. To make it a threesome, Lisa Ann is in third place.

Meanwhile, porn star Cherokee d'Ass is searched for 142 percent more often in Philly than elsewhere in the U.S.

"Ebony," "lesbian" and "MILF" are the most-viewed video categories in the metro areas of three of the largest cities in the United States: New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Maybe it's an East Coast thing?

According to Pornhub, the diverse ethnicity of these cities shows in their relative search term popularity.

Philly Police Department eyes move to old Inquirer building

Years after the idea to ditch the iconic Roundhouse for a West Philly location was aborted, officials have a new plan.

HAYDEN MITMAN
letters@metro.us

For decades, the stone white tower of the Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News building has stood on Broad Street, the electrically-lit clock tower acting as something of a beacon of truth in darkness.

That light could soon become the watchful eye of a diligent police force, as the Philadelphia Police Department has announced a plan to turn the former newspaper building into the new police headquarters.

"This is really a great location for efficiency of police operations," said Anne Fadullon, head of the city's Department of Planning and Development.

The plan would alter a long-standing project that the city had to move the new headquarters of the city's police force to West Philadelphia.

According to Fadullon, who announced the plan at a press event on Wednesday, moving the city's police force to the old newspaper building would allow for a more efficient, cost-effective operation than the West Philly building would.

On Wednesday, city officials touted the newspaper's former home as being more accessible to public transportation, having more room for police operations – the plan would include the consolidation of police services that are currently located remotely, like the city's morgue, the fire and police communications unit and the 6th and 9th district buildings – while also providing a parking complex with 600 spaces for police use.

"I'm excited for a lot of reasons. … The efficiency is something you really can't put a value on," said Philadelphia Police Commissioner Richard Ross during the announcement of the plan, noting the importance of bringing several separate police services under one roof.

According to city officials, the decision to move the city's police headquarters from its current location to the former newspaper building at 400 N. Broad St. came after a critical look at the former plan to move the police headquarters to a building at 4601 Market St.

Bridget Greenwald of the city's Department of Public Property said that the newspaper building would provide more space than the West Philly project and would allow the inclusion of not only the city's medical examiner's office and a central location for the city's fire and emergency communications units, but also a place for the city's 6th and 9th districts, allowing the city to sell homes or vacate leased properties.

"We anticipate that we will get full use out of the site," said Greenwald.

According to city officials, the project will cost about $288 million, and the police are expected to be able to move into the building in the spring of 2020.

As for the building at 4601 Market St., Greenwald said the city has spent about $50 million refurbishing the building, but they hope to make that money up through the sale of the building, for which she said they have already received a few offers.

Two addiction counselors die from fentanyl overdoses at Chesco clinic

Drugs found near the overdose scene in 'Superman' and skull & crossbones-stamped baggies tested positive for fentanyl.

sam.newhouse@metro.us

Opioid addiction has been identified as a national crisis as fatal overdose rates soar, but in one of the most shocking examples yet of the drug's power, two addiction counselors at a rehab clinic tasked with helping others recover both died of fatal overdoses this week, authorities announced.

The two counselors were found unresponsive in two separate bathrooms by the recovering addicts they were tasked with supervising on May 22, Chester County DA Tom Hogan said. Drugs found near their bodies have tested positive for fentanyl.

The counselors worked at the Freedom Ridge Recovery Lodge in West Brandywine, a recovery home and halfway house for addicts that had two counselors and six men as residents. The residents who discovered them administered Narcan nasal spray to the counselors unsuccessfully, according to Hogan's office, before calling 911. First responders pronounced the counselors dead at the scene. Neither has been identified.

"If anybody is wondering how bad the opioid epidemic has become, this case is a frightening example," Hogan said. "The staff members in charge of supervising recovering addicts succumbed to their own addiction and died of opioid overdoses. Opioids are a monster that is slowly consuming our population."

The nightstand of one drug addiction counselor who died of an overdose is seen littered with baggies and a hypodermic needle. CHESTER COUNTY DA'S OFFICE

Hogan's office said heroin baggies and needles were found near both bodies. The baggies, stamped with the "Superman" logo and a skull & crossbones logo, were positive for fentanyl, according to preliminary tests.

"Anyone who sees baggies in the area with the Superman or Danger logo must be warned to stay away from those drugs," Hogan said in a statement. "They appear to be heroin laced with fentanyl and are likely to kill anybody who uses them. We will not even let law enforcement handle them without special precautions because of the extreme danger of death or injury."

"Nobody is immune," Chester County Department of Drugs and Alcohol Director Vince Brown said in a statement. "These deaths are tragic examples of the impact that the heroin and opioid epidemic continues to have on our communities … But it is important to know that help is available and that recovery, from any addiction, is possible and happens every day."

Why Viagra Is Failing Men

Soaring demand expected for new scientific advance made just for older men. Works on both men's physical ability and their desire in bed.

New men's pill overwhelms your senses with sexual desire as well as firmer, long-lasting erections. There's never been anything like it.

By Harlan S. Waxman
Health News Syndicate

New York – If you're like the rest of us guys over 50, you probably already know the truth... Prescription ED pills may work, but they don't solve all the probems in the bedroom and they are very expensive. Dr. Bassam Damaj, chief scientific officer at the world famous Innovus Pharma Laboratories, explains, "As we get older, we need more help in bed. Not only does our desire fade; but erections can be soft or feeble, one of the main complaints with prescription pills. Besides, they're expensive... costing as much as $50.00 each."

Plus, it does nothing to stimulate your brain to want sex. "I don't care what you take; if you aren't interested in sex, you can't get or keep an erection. It's physiologically impossible," said Dr. Damaj.

MADE JUST FOR MEN OVER 50

But now, for the first time ever, there's a pill made just for older men. It's called Vesele®. A new pill that helps you in bed by stimulating your body and your brainwaves. So Vesele® can work even when nothing else worked before.

The new men's pill is not a drug. It's something completely different.

Because you don't need a prescription for Vesele®, sales are exploding. The maker just can't produce enough of it to keep up with demand. Even doctors are having a tough time getting their hands on it. So what's all the fuss about?

JAW-DROPPING CLINICAL PROOF

	Vesele	Baseline
Overall Satisfaction	88.1%	41.4%
Frequency of sex	79.5%	44.9%
Desire for sex	82%	47.9%
Hardness during sex	85.7%	36.2%
Duration of erection	79.5%	35%
Ability to satisfy	83.3%	44.1%

WORKS ON YOUR MIND AND YOUR BODY

The new formula takes on erectile problems with a whole new twist. It doesn't just address the physical problems of getting older; it works on the mental part of sex too. Unlike the expensive prescriptions, the new pill stimulates your sexual brain chemistry as well, actually helping you regain the passion and burning desire you had for your partner again. So you will want sex with the hunger and stamina of a 25-year-old.

THE BRAIN CONNECTION

Vesele® takes off where Viagra® only begins. Thanks to a discovery made by 3 Nobel-Prize winning scientists, Vesele® has become the first ever patented supplement to harden you and your libido. So you regain your desire as well as the ability to act on it.

In a 16-week clinical study, scientists from the U.S.A. joined forces to prove Nitric Oxide's effects on the cardio vascular system. They showed that Nitric Oxide could not only increase your ability to get an erection, it would also work on your brainwaves to stimulate your desire for sex. The results were remarkable and published in the world's most respected medical journals.

THE SCIENCE

The study asked men, 45 to 65 years old to take the main ingredient in Vesele® once a day. Then they were instructed not to change the way they eat or exercise but to take Vesele® twice a day. What happened next was remarkable. Virtually every man in the study who took Vesele® twice a day reported a huge difference in their desire for sex. In layman's terms, they were horny again. They also experienced harder erections that lasted for almost 20 minutes. The placebo controlled group (who received sugar pills) mostly saw no difference.

AN UNEXPECTED BONUS: The study results even showed an impressive increase in the energy, brain-power and memory of the participants.

SUPPLY LIMITED BY OVERWHELMING DEMAND

"Once we saw the results we knew we had a game-changer said Dr. Damaj. We get hundreds of calls a day from people begging us for a bottle. It's been crazy. We try to meet the crushing demand for Vesele®."

VESELE® PASSED THE TEST

"As an expert in the development of sexual dysfunction, I've studied the effectiveness of Nitric Oxide on the body and the brain. I'm impressed by the way it increases cerebral and penile blood flow. The result is evident in the creation of Vesele®. It's sure-fire proof that the mind/body connection is unbeatable when achieving and maintaining an erection and the results are remarkable" said Dr. Damaj.

HERE'S WHAT MEN ARE SAYING

- I'm ready to go sexually and mentally.
- More frequent erections at night and in the morning.
- I have seen a change in sexual desire.
- Typically take 1 each morning and 1 each night. Great Stamina, Great Results!
- An increased intensity in orgasms.
- My focus (mental) has really improved... Huge improvement.
- Amazing orgasms!
- I feel more confident in bed.

HOW TO GET VESELE®

This is the first official public release of Vesele® since its news release. In order to get the word out about Vesele®, Innovus Pharma is offering special introductory discounts to all who call.

A special phone hotline has been set up for readers in your area to take advantage of special discounts during this ordering opportunity. The discounts will automatically be applied to all callers. The Special TOLL-FREE Hotline number is 1-800-750-2246 and will be open 24-hours a day.

Limited bottles of Vesele® are currently available in your region. Consumers who miss out on our current product inventory will have to wait until more become available. But this could take weeks. The maker advises your best chance is to call 1-800-750-2246 early.

Philly's most famous tow truck driver: City is picking on us

Famous Philly tow truck driver Lew Blum responds to "How to Fix Philly."

@MetroPhilly
letters@metro.us

With the launch of Metro's new column, "How to Fix Philly," the newspaper looked at the efforts City Council is making to combat concerns about illegal towing in the city.

The column rankled some in the private towing industry, most notably, towing company magnate Lew Blum.

On Wednesday, Blum spoke to Metro to share his thoughts on the new legislation that requires private tow truck drivers to have cars ticketed by authorized agencies before any vehicle in the city can be towed.

"This council is totally unfair to the towing companies," Blum said.

Blum was quick to point out that while towing companies are being targeted by City Council with new efforts to combat residents' complaints – like a pending bill aimed at stopping price gouging at crashes and by creating an online database of private parking sign locations – the city itself is making money on every car stowed in a towing company's lot, as well.

The city, he noted, gets a 22.5 percent tax on any vehicle left in a parking garage or in storage for more than 24 hours.

"They are the ones gouging their own citizens," said Blum of that tax. "That's why the parking [costs are] so high in Philadelphia."

In discussing a recent bill spearheaded by City Councilwoman Maria D. Quiñones-Sánchez (D-7th dist.), which now requires any car towed by a private towing company to be ticketed by an authorized agency – before this year, tow truck operators could simply take photos of vehicles prior to a tow – Blum said that the bill was an overreaction to what he believed was an isolated problem.

He said residents' complaints of fake no parking signs or stories of towing companies moving cars into no parking zones were likely "all bull."

"That's just farfetched," he said when asked about the complaints. "They are just making it up as they go along."

Instead, he said that – even before passage of Quiñones-Sánchez's bill – private tow operators contacted the police before any tow to find out if vehicles were stolen or if they were involved in a crime. Only after contacting police would they then be able to take photos and tow a vehicle.

Any private towing company that wasn't doing its due diligence should instead be hit with fines, not a new bill that, Blum said, punishes all private towing companies.

"All the city needs to do is fine the bad guys, just like the police do," said Blum.

By requiring private towing companies to require tickets on vehicles prior to a tow, Blum said that his drivers are finding that some agencies are claiming they don't have authority to write a ticket for a given vehicle, or his drivers are unable to get ticketing officials to come to their locations in a timely manner, making tow truck drivers wait upward of two hours, he said.

"City Council has lied to you," said Blum. "We can't get the tickets. … This is no good. They aren't writing tickets for private tow."

Even when they can get an authorized agency to come to vehicles they plan to tow, Blum said oftentimes officers who do come to write a ticket will dispute the need for a tow or will contact the vehicle's owner and allow them to move the vehicle, depriving his drivers of the work.

He noted that private property owners hang signs for his company by their own choice and call his company for towing. And, he said, in many cases – like issues at an Acme at 10th and Reed streets in South Philly – illegal parkers are given a warning before vehicles are towed.

"How is tow the predator when we warn people?" asked Blum.

Binge eating is a disorder, not a decision.

Do you have uncontrollable binge eating days?
Do you feel embarrassment and guilt after eating excessive amounts of food?

Binge Eating Disorder, or B.E.D., is the most common eating disorder among adults in the US, more common than bulimia or anorexia.

If you have had at least two binge eating days a week for the past 6 months, you may be eligible to take part in a research study testing an investigational medication in adults with B.E.D.

Those who qualify will receive all study-related tests and investigational medication at no cost.

Reimbursement for travel and related expenses may be available for completed study visits.

UK police hunt Manchester bomber's network, angered by US leaks

British-born Salman Abedi, 22, who was known to security services, killed 22 people at a concert venue packed with children on Monday night.

Police officers talk to a member of the public as they guard the location of a building where it is believed a raid took place in connection with terrorist Salman Abedi on Wednesday. GETTY IMAGES

Police scrambled to close down a network around the Manchester suicide bomber with arrests in Britain and Tripoli on Wednesday, as details about the investigation were leaked to U.S. media, infuriating authorities who fear a second attack is imminent.

Authorities believe Saknab Abedi, 22, had help building the bomb, which photographs published by the New York Times showed was sophisticated and powerful, and that his accomplices could be ready to strike again.

Manchester police arrested five men and one woman on Wednesday, bringing the total held for questioning to seven, and searched multiple addresses in northern and central England.

Explosives were found at one site, the Independent reported, citing security service sources.

A source said British investigators were hunting for anyone who may have helped build the suicide bomb.

"I think it's very clear that this is a network that we are investigating," police chief Ian Hopkins said outside Manchester police headquarters.

"And as I've said, it continues at a pace. There's extensive investigations going on and activity taking place across Greater Manchester as we speak."

Abedi, who was born in Manchester in 1994 to Libyan parents, blew himself up on Monday night at the Manchester Arena indoor venue at the end of a concert by U.S. pop singer Ariana Grande attended by thousands of children and teenagers.

Police in Tripoli on Wednesday arrested Abedi's younger brother and his father, who said he did not expect the attack.

"I think it's very clear that this is a network that we are investigating ... And as I've said, it continues at a pace. There's extensive investigations going on and activity taking place across Greater Manchester as we speak."

Police chief Ian Hopkins

"I spoke to [Abedi] about five days ago .... there was nothing wrong, everything was normal," Ramadan Abedi, his father, told Reuters, moments before he was arrested.

A spokesman for the local counterterrorism force said his brother Hashem Abedi was arrested on suspicion of links with Islamic State and was suspected of planning to carry out an attack in the Libyan capital.

The first arrest made in Britain on Tuesday was reported by British and U.S. media to be Abedi's older brother.

Earlier, interior minister Amber Rudd said the bomber had recently returned from Libya. Her French counterpart Gerard Collomb said Abedi had links with Islamic State and had probably visited Syria as well.

Under attack, Manchester finds some solace in culture of grit and wit

Authorities in Britain have become increasingly angered by U.S. leaks from the investigation, including the bomber's name on Tuesday and the photos of blood-stained fragments from the bomb on Wednesday.

British police chiefs said the breaches of trust between security service partners were undermining their efforts.

Rudd had earlier scolded U.S. officials for leaking details.

"The British police have been very clear that they want to control the flow of information in order to protect operational integrity, the element of surprise, so it is irritating if it gets released from other sources, and I have been very clear with our friends that should not happen again," she said.

But, hours after the warning, the New York Times published the detailed photographs.

A government source told the Guardian newspaper, "Protests have been lodged at every relevant level between the British authorities and our U.S. counterparts."

British Prime Minster Theresa May will meet President Donald Trump at a NATO summit in Brussels on Thursday, but officials said she would cut short the second leg of her trip to the G7 summit in Italy.

The Manchester bombing has raised concern across Europe. Cities including Paris, Nice, Brussels, St. Petersburg, Berlin and London have suffered militant attacks in the last two years.

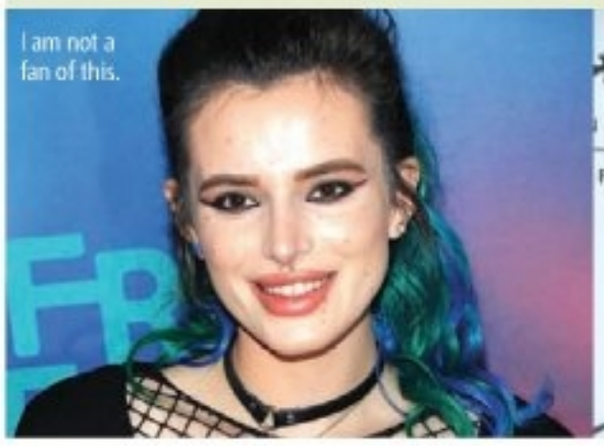
Are Scott Disick and Bella Thorne for real?

Scott Disick is a 33-year-old man who found fame impregnating Kourtney Kardashian. Bella Thorne is a 19-year-old who used to star in a Disney Channel series, "Shake it Up," with Zendaya. Thorne is clearly going through a phase right now, and perhaps because of that, she and Disick appear to be dating. But also, it's probably because they both just really love attention!

Disick and Thorne have been spotted groping each other in Cannes this week, and it's pretty unpleasant to look at. Just trust me on it. He's literally grabbing her breasts like he's Leonardo DiCaprio in "Titanic," and they're the door that Kate Winslet is staying afloat on. It is a true terror.

Anyway, a source tells People that Thorne "really likes the attention," which is both very clear and very obvious. And clearly, Disick doesn't mind it, either. "There's definitely chemistry," another source tells the mag. "And they both seem to love the attention. It's not like they're hiding. … [They're] having fun together — partying and acting very flirty." Yuck. Hopefully this is the last time we will ever speak of this unholy union.



I am not a fan of this.

Did Tyra Banks verbally abuse an "America's Got Talent" contestant?

Tyra Banks? More like Tyrant Banks. OK, I'm sorry.

New York magazine reports that a woman referred to as Jane Doe is suing the production company behind "America's Got Talent." She claims that her young daughter, "Mary Doe" suffered trauma when Banks, the show's host, "physically manipulated and verbally abused" her.

The contestant, Jane Doe, and her husband sang an original song about motherhood and Mary's birth for the show, as you do. But the judges were not into it. The "America's Top Model" alum reportedly pulled Mary's hair back and physically manipulated Mary, and it didn't stop there. The 43-year-old then allegedly made it worst off stage. "Banks also insinuated that Mary was accidentally conceived, made fun of the performance and ridiculed [the song] in front of Mary, all in front of active cameras that were filming Mary," the suit reads.

This sounds like a sad, horrible case of standard humiliating reality show and very embarrassing parents gone so, so wrong. "America's Got Talent" is supposed to be a show about talented and untalented people across America, not a Lifetime sequel for "Mean Girls," tentatively titled "Mean Girls 2: Mean, Green Tyra Machine!"

Here's hoping this whole thing gets sorted soon.

Oh dear, this is not looking good. ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Rob Huebel: We should have voted for The Rock, not Trump

The actor and comedian talks "Baywatch" and not getting into shape.

matt.prigge@metro.us

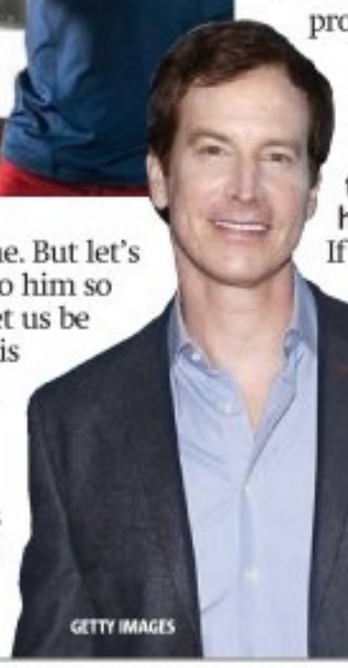
Rob Huebel plays the corporate head of the lifeguards, including Zac Efron's Matt, in the movie version of "Baywatch."
PARAMOUNT PICTURES

Rob Huebel is the one in "Baywatch" who spends the whole movie in a three-piece suit. In the big screen take on the Clinton-era show, he's Capt. Thorpe, the bureaucratic head of the rock star lifeguard outfit run by Dwayne Johnson's Mitch Buchannon. Everyone runs around in bikinis and one-pieces. Huebel is just one of the ad-libbing ringers, cracking jokes alongside the also very funny Johnson and Zac Efron.

We talked to Huebel, 47, a longtime, "Hey, that guy!" of comedy, whose hits include "Children's Hospital," "Keanu" and "Transparent" — plus his own sketch show, "Human Giant," which he made with Aziz Ansari and Paul Scheer. Huebel talks about not getting into shape, possibly voting for one of his latest co-stars and how his daughter, born extremely premature, is doing now.

So you might have made a movie with our future president, Dwayne Johnson.

It's insane. But let's be nice to him so he can let us be part of his cabinet. And if The Rock becomes the president, think of how much money we'll save on the military. We won't need as many guys — we'll just send the Rock over in a helicopter with a shotgun. He'll go all over the world and fix our problems, because he's The Rock.



GETTY IMAGES

He can just do that eyebrow thing to our aggressors.

Yeah, he can raise his eyebrow at North Korean leader Kim Jong Un, and he'll snap into line. We won't have any more problems.

The Rock would be a much better celebrity president than the one we have.

If we were going to pick a celebrity president, we picked the wrong one. We want a do-over, and we'll pick The Rock.

Parenthood

How is your daughter doing? She was born terrifyingly early.

She's really great, man. She was three months premature, which was really, really scary. We were in the NICU at Cedars, a hospital out in L.A., for 117 days. We just got her home a couple months ago, and she's doing great. Now she's up to 16 pounds. She's this fat little roly-poly baby. She's super healthy and hilarious. When a baby's born that early, there's all kinds of stuff that can go wrong. Thank goodness we had these amazing doctors and NICU nurses keeping an eye on her. So a shout out to the heroes in the NICU, and a shout-out to insurance. Get some insurance while you can.

How's fatherhood?

It's superfun. I was really hoping that we would have a boy, just because I'm a boy and I figured I could relate more to boys. But we had a girl and, man, I've got to say: Screw boys. I don't care about boys. Having a girl is the best thing in the world. She is so cool and funny and opinionated and sassy. It's so much fun hanging out with her.

Increasingly, in this age of sexist presidents and men's rights activists, I agree that boys suck.

Oh, for sure. I was thinking that she came early because she thought there was going to be a girl president. That didn't work out.

So tell me about Zac Efron's abs, which you've seen in person.

Yeah, I've seen his abs up close. I've never seen anyone in shape like he is. Really, everyone in the movie had to get in crazy shape except me. When they weren't shooting, I would look around and everyone was either planking or use those exercise bars to keep your muscles pumped up. I would just be eating a cupcake from craft services.

Staying sane after Manchester

Geek Girl in Hollywood

It's hard to write about the latest movie trailer after something terrible happens in the world. It's hard to write about anything. Everything seems silly and superfluous in the face of the deaths of children. I'm not even going to try to pretend I'm thinking about anything but the Manchester bombing, or that I'm anything but heartbroken and bewildered by the cruelty of targeting young girls in this horrific attack.

I think the best thing you can do in situations like this is find out what you're best at and do that in a way that helps. Donate to the Red Cross or the families who are dealing with tragedy. Spend time talking to children. Here's one more thing, since what I do best is talk about entertainment: Please keep seeing concerts. Please keep going to art festivals and music venues and movie theaters. Please keep supporting the arts. To stop living with joy is what people who do this or plan this want for us.

Messages and floral tributes are seen in Albert Square in Manchester the day after the terrorist attack. GETTY IMAGES

We cannot let them win.

I don't talk about this much, but I was living and working in NYC during the 9/11 attacks. My boss lost her husband. I couldn't contact most of my family for hours. Most of my friends lost someone. I was terrified to go back to work in Lower Manhattan. I made myself do it, because screw people who try to ruin what we love here. The thing is, I thought people who came to the store where I was working to buy lipstick were silly and frivolous, until I asked one woman why she was there. I'm sure I sounded awful.

She smiled at me and said, "It's what I would have done if this hadn't happened. I refuse to let them take away what is normal any more than is absolutely necessary. I'm doing what I would normally do. In my tiny little way, I'm not letting them win."

I have never forgotten that, no matter how many times we deal with terrorist attacks. So when a coward attacks children at a place that should have brought them joy, or tourists checking out Big Ben or people in Nice enjoying a celebration, it makes me more determined than ever to celebrate what we all love.

FOOD & DRINK

Guac Off

Few things say summer quite like buckets of guacamole, and you'll get the green stuff in spades at Manna's annual Guac Off. The event pits local chefs against one another to find who makes the best guacamole in the city, all the while raising money for Manna's mission to provide meals to local folks dealing with life-threatening illnesses. Among the restaurants throwing their hat in the ring are Cantina Dos Segundos, La Calaca Feliz and Mission Taqueria.

Backyard BBQ

To celebrate Memorial Day weekend, Center City's Uptown Beer Garden (UBG) debuts a bunch of special additions to its food and drink menu. On the food front, there's a variety of unique kabobs, like watermelon, mojo shrimp, Korean beef and porter-glazed pork belly. There's also a trio of beers developed exclusively by UBG, like the Solar Baby, a blonde IPA brewed with local wildflower honey and a blend of tropical, fruit-forward hops.

MUSIC

HoagieNation

The Roots have their picnic, Jay Z has Made in America and now Philadelphia sons Hall & Oates have their own music fest: HoagieNation. The one-day festival is billed as "a celebration of everything Philly," though the itinerary boasts a host of local and nonlocal acts. Look out for 1980s British duo Tears for Fears, Philly hip-hop outfit G. Love & Special Sauce and 215-bred soul crooners Son Little and Vivian Green.

Nick's 5th Birthday Burger Bash

The owners of Old City corner bar Nick's culminate their weeklong birthday celebration on Friday with the reveal of a special birthday burger: a beef patty with homemade beer cheese, bacon-frizzled onions and jalapeños. If that isn't tempting enough, every burger on the menu (including their mouth-watering ground bacon creations) will be $5 in honor of the establishment's fifth year in business.

MUSIC

The Orwells

The Orwells are five former Chicago suburbanites on a mission to prove that American rock and roll is alive and well. Their latest release, "Disgraced," tells the story of how the former high school mates escaped their hometown to follow their dreams. And what dreams they've achieved. The quintet recorded the album in studios around the world after being on the road with acts like Arctic Monkeys, Fidlar and Palma Violets.

Life between the waters

'Tween Waters Inn PROVIDED

Florida's Captiva Island will charm you with its natural splendor and laid-back fun.

ED CONDRAN
@MetroPhilly
letters@metro.us

Stepping onto the Captiva Island beach will have you feeling like you're in the Caribbean — but in fact, you're just off the mainland.

The beguiling seaside getaway sits just an hour's drive from the Southwest Florida International Airport in Fort Myers. The six-mile island stretches straight as an arrow, with a sleepy hamlet that boasts tons of character. The beaches here are more luxurious than Florida's East Coast, with powdery white sand that's as soft as a pillow.

If you're a treasure hunter, Captiva Island is the place to be. We thought people had some posture issues, until we figured out that everyone is bent over marveling at the gorgeous shells that line the coast. This stooping is so common that it has a name: the Captiva crouch. Sand dollars, sea glass and pretty ornate shells are ubiquitous and easy to find in the crystal clear water.

That's about the pace of life on Captiva Island. The art lovers have Fort Lauderdale, the partiers have Miami, but those seeking a slower pace are best served by this smaller sister island to the well-known Sanibel Island. Outdoor activities are the big draw, from fishing and boating to bike riding and golf. Instead of spotting celebrities on the beach, you're more likely to see dolphins and tons of colorful subtropical birds — and that's how Captiva likes it.

You'll want the right hub to experience it, and that's the only place more chill than the beach: the 'Tween Waters Inn Island and Spa. Opened in 1931, the property spans from the turquoise Gulf of Mexico waters and picturesque Pine Island Sound, with 13 stunning acres of beach, where you can opt to stay in two- and three-bedroom seaside cottages.

Don't let the name fool you — the property is a hub of outdoor activity, with an Olympic-size pool (with accompanying kids' wading pool) and tennis courts, as well as relaxation in hot tubs and a recently remodeled day spa that overlooks the property.

We were surprised to find that the hotel has its own marine biologist, with daily beach walks at 7 a.m. And while the day starts early, it also goes until late with full moon tours. Paddle out through the mangrove forest of Buck Key by moonlight and prepare to be taken aback by the bioluminescent schools of fish and marine life in the dark gulf waters.

If you prefer a conventional open water adventure, there are plenty of options available for booking right at the front desk. You can fish, snorkel or take a unique ecocharter with a focus on the diversity of marine life, habitat and history of Captiva and Sanibel. The marina is just a few steps from the 'Tween Waters offering private charters.

Seafood lovers will be well served at the Inn's upscale Captiva House restaurant, which also offers the island's only sushi menu. Or try the beach tapas at the Crow's Nest, where the fish tacos are always the special featuring the day's catch.

The combination of history, luxury and laid-back beach vibes makes Captiva Island and the 'Tween Waters Inn a rare Florida vacation experience.

Captiva's shores are famous for their bounty of seashells. LUDACHRISSSO, FLICKR

Flying with baby

You don't have to give up traveling — you've just got to be smarter.

Fodor's Travel

Having to tote a baby around doesn't have to cramp your vacation plans. We've got a few tips on how to make travels with kids easier.

ISTOCK

Bring a disposable change of clothes

Accidents happen, especially when you travel. In case you have a milk spill or diaper explosion, always pack an extra set of clothes for baby. I love the cheap white onesies you can buy in sets. If there's a diaper explosion or a major spit-up, you won't feel bad just tossing it in the nearest trash can.

Extra clothes for you

If said poop or throw-up lands on you, you're going to want to get those clothes off pronto, otherwise you'll be stuck smelly or with a souvenir T-shirt purchased in the gift shop at the airport.

Invest in noise-canceling headphones

There's nothing worse than a sleeping baby being awoken to an announcement on the loudspeaker letting everyone know that the seat belt sign is off. If your baby is old enough to wear headphones, pick up a set for kids before your trip.

Time your trip to your baby's sleep

If you have some control over your flight times, try and book the flights according to when you think your baby will most likely be napping.

Upgrade your diaper bag

In the rush of getting ready to leave for a trip, things sometimes get overlooked. Write out a complete list and cross check it with your diaper bag before you leave.

And always bring extras — pacifiers, burp cloths, books, quiet toys, etc.

Reserve your seating

If at all possible, reserve your seats ahead of time. Ideal seating is the bulkhead with extra leg room and aisle seats that make it easy to get up and walk around with your baby.

Check the car seat, bring the stroller

If you have a young baby, it's easiest to check the car seat and keep your baby in a smaller stroller that can be checked at the gate. When your baby's not riding in the stroller, it doubles as a handy holder for your purse, diaper bag, etc.

Carson Wentz is currently prepping for Year 2 in the NFL. GETTY IMAGES

Can Wentz take it to the next level?

Carson Wentz's expected improvement in 2017 continues to be pontificated on as offseason rolls on.

EVAN MACY
evan.macy@metro.us

The Eagles made it no secret this offseason, they want to help Carson Wentz become a superstar.

Giving him shiny new weapons like Alshon Jeffery, Torrey Smith and LeGarrette Blount is a good first step — but the hard work to improve on an impressive rookie season is Wentz's alone. And one of Wentz's favorite targets, Jordan Matthews, says it's time to let the man do his job.

"I think he can make a big jump," Matthews said after practice at the team's first OTA Tuesday. "There are so many people putting crazy expectations on Carson. You know I am one of the biggest believers in him but I don't want to put those sound bites out there, just let the man work."

Some of the biggest differences Wentz's teammates see in him this preseason as opposed to last — when he was fresh off being taken second overall in the NFL draft — are his confidence and leadership.

"He's come in here ready to go," Eagles head coach Doug Pederson said. "He's come in here eager, excited about the offseason, working with the new guys and the guys from last year. That's what I've seen. I've seen him sort of come in rejuvenated. Last year at this time, he had played a bunch of football. He was coming off his world tour. He had just been drafted. Now he's had a chance to just kind of sit back and look at the regular season last year and make the necessary adjustments and corrections and learn from it."

Newcomer Jeffery has built an impressive NFL pedigree during his time in Chicago, and he can't help but be impressed by the 24-year-old's natural leadership.

"He is a great leader," Jeffery said. "He's the first one in the building and may be the last one to leave. He hustles on the field, off the field."

CARSON WENTZ THREW 16 TD PASSES IN HIS ROOKIE SEASON

Wentz is always outgoing and always outspoken but humbly credits his teammates and the atmosphere in the locker room with encouraging his natural inclination to lead the team.

"The continuity and chemistry is important," he said, "knowing what guys are going to do when things break down. It's nice to have those guys but this is the NFL and things are always changing and we have to continue to grow with the new guys."

Always the optimist, Wentz added: "I love the guys in that locker room, and I think we have the chance to do something special."

Phillies on the farm are producing at least

The Phillies' farm system has some great young talent.

KYLE PHILLIPPI
@Kyle_Phillippi
sports@metro.us

Citizens Bank Park has seen some pretty dreary days through the first two months of the season, and that's even before the dog days of summer.

All is not lost, though, for the Phillies organization. With interest dwindling with each loss at the big league level, fans are – more than ever – turning their attention to the farm system. With a wealth of talent beaming from the lower Single-A classes all the way through to Lehigh Valley, there have been some pretty impressive numbers put up from the prospects.

Here's a look at some of the ones that have caught our eye:

1B Rhys Hoskins, Lehigh Valley (AAA)

Through 44 games, Hoskins has been mashing the ball just as effectively as he was last season with Double-A Reading. Among qualified players, he leads the team with a .318 average all while displaying power in the form of 12 home runs and 36 RBI – both of which are either the most on the team or tied for first. Including last season, he has now hit 50 homers with 152 RBI in 179 games between Double-A and Triple-A.

Rhys Hoskins has been raking this season. GETTY IMAGES

LF Andrew Pullin, Reading (AA)

The 23-year-old saw his first action in Double-A last year and more than held his own with a .346 average in 46 games. Starting the year in Reading, Pullin has continued to hit the pitchers at that level to the tune of a .338 average with a team-high 31 RBI and 15 doubles. He's also tacked on 10 homers.

C Jorge Alfaro, Lehigh Valley (AAA)

With Cameron Rupp struggling and Andrew Knapp getting more action as of late, the Phillies could certainly use some help behind the plate. Alfaro may be the first one to get called up as he's batting .281 with 20 RBI in 34 games.

SP Ben Lively, Lehigh Valley (AAA)

A 5-1 record is always a nice sight, but the numbers don't stop there for Lively. The right-hander has a 2.79 ERA with a team-high 38 strikeouts to only five walks. His WHIP sits at 0.95. He's also picked up a complete among his eight starts.

CF Mickey Moniak, Lakewood (A)

The No. 1 overall pick in 2016, Moniak sports a .285 average with 17 RBI, a team-high 25 runs and 13 extra-base hits. The 19-year-old has adjusted pretty well after playing 46 games in the Grapefruit League in 2016 where he batted .284 with 28 RBI in 46 games.

2B Scott Kingery, Reading (AA)

A prospect who's hard not to love, Kingery's hard-nosed play continues to reap benefits for his club. The second baseman has smacked a team-high 14 homers to go along with 28 RBI and a whopping 41 runs scored, which is 16 more than the second highest. He's shown some speed, as well, stealing nine of the 10 bases he's attempted.

Eagles' wide receiver retreat will be an annual event

Being a professional football player can be like having any other job — showing up on time, working hard and taking home a paycheck to support your family — or it can be something else entirely.

The competition, the nature of the camaraderie that comes with spending so much time with your teammates, the allure of playing a game for a living are all attributes of Carson Wentz's career path that he cherishes. And for Wentz, the object isn't to simply to have a career — it's also to win.

This past offseason, Wentz had the entire Eagles offensive line over to his house in South Jersey where he allowed them to shoot their Beretta shotguns (worth an estimated $24,000) purchased for them last Christmas. What better way to bond, right?

"We went down the roach and shot some shotguns," Wentz said. "Some of the guys loved shooting guns and did it a lot, and for some of the guys it was very new. And then I grilled some steaks and we had spent some good time together."

Carson Wentz. GETTY IMAGES

For Wentz and his teammates, there is never enough time. Picking up nuances about teammates is what can seperate good offenses from great ones, and Wentz wants to be great.

Last summer, between the end of minicamp and the start of training camp, former Eagles quarterback Sam Bradford had all the wide receivers together to work out and build chemistry on and off the field.

Wentz continued the tradition, having several players come together in his native North Dakota to work out during the winter — and he plans to widen the scope of the "skills position" retreat and keep it going every single year.

"I think that's going to be an annual thing every summer," Wentz said. "I'm not sure where we are going to go yet but I think that's a big part of the quarterback-wide receiver relationship, even the tight ends and running backs, we can get together to build that chemistry not just on the field but to also spend time together and bond as well." Aries Participate in something that concerns you if you want to make a difference. Your energy and ability to make things happen will put you in the running for an award.

Taurus Look outside your normal venues for answers to questions of a personal nature. Insight that can be adapted to suit your situation will come from an unexpected source.

Gemini Emotions will be difficult to control when dealing with matters that affect your personal life, status or reputation. Be careful not to offend someone.

Cancer Ask precise questions. Put together a plan based on what you are told and how best to apply that information to get the results you want.

Leo Opportunity knocks, and you must answer. Much can be accomplished if you get involved in a cause or project you believe in. Personal changes will turn out well.

Virgo Refuse to let emotions halt your pursuits. Not everyone will like what you do, but you must do what's right for you. Don't falter when you should be moving forward.

Libra Taking short trips, talking to an expert and collaborating with someone who is as visual and creative as you are will lead to fabulous results. Make personal changes.

Scorpio Someone will mess with you if you aren't careful. Don't let anyone handle your financial, contractual or medical affairs. Do your own legwork and ask questions.

Sagittarius Partnerships are featured and should be nurtured and taken up a notch. Encouragement and sharing your opinions will promote a healthy relationship.

Capricorn Too much of anything will work against you. Avoid anyone who is erratic or showing signs of indulgence. Refuse to let someone manipulate you emotionally.

Aquarius Keep your plans a secret until you are fully prepared to present and promote what you have to offer. Timing will make a difference to the outcome.

Pisces Call in a favor to make changes that will help you enhance your life. Home improvements will encourage you to host an event or start a new hobby. EUGENIA LAST
